

Believable characters

After reading 'An Artificial Life', think about what the audience is told about the android before we actually meet the character. What do we know about the android by the end of the story? Record your ideas in the boxes below.

| How does the author introduce the android? | What we know about the adroid by the end? |

Use the lines below to write a conversation between the android and another character in the story. How different is your version of the android to the one in the story?
